C. Identification of Critical Positions

1. Due to the importance of several positions to the operation of the Office a high turnover rate in these positions can hinder the Office's effectiveness.
2. The Office reserves the right to classify certain positions as "critical", and in doing so, it places additional restrictions on the members who have been selected to fill these positions. These restrictions will take the form of rules regarding hours of work, working conditions, minimum tenure required in the position and/or other issues.
3. In most cases, positions will not be classified as critical until some evidence exist that the failure to maintain members within the positions is causing performance related problems for the component.
4. When a supervisor perceives a performance problem which can be attributed to a failure to maintain adequately trained personnel, he/she should address a memorandum, via the chain of command, to the Human Resources Director outlining the problem(s) and requesting that the position (s) be classified a critical position. The supervisor should identify the possible causes of the problem(s) and recommended solutions
5. The Human Resources Director will conduct a study of the problems as outlined by the supervisor and examine the turnover rate for the identified component for the proceeding twelve (12) months and other Office records as necessary to determine the severity of the problem.
6. Based on this study the Human Resources Director will prepare a memorandum to the Sheriff, via the chain of command, recommending the suggested course of action.
7. Upon review of the research, the Sheriff will make a determination as to what action, if any, is to be taken. If the position is determined to be defined as critical, then the class of position would be advertised as such in any future job announcement, both within and outside of the Office. Any restrictions placed upon the position will be specifically listed on the announcement.
8. The Human Resources Director will create a written agreement herein to be referred to as a "Critical Position Memorandum of Understanding", which will indicate any restrictions that have been placed upon the position which will be executed prior to accepting the position. This form will become a part of the member's personnel file.
9. The Human Resources Director will conduct a review and advise the Sheriff, via chain of command, of any necessary changes:
 - a. Job descriptions of all employees will be reviewed every four years
 - b. Job descriptions for positions which have been classified as "critical" will be reviewed annually

D. Specialized Assignments

1. On occasion, specialized assignments may be created to meet certain demands or requirements of the Office.
2. All anticipated specialized assignments shall be advertised to all Office members. Should no qualified candidate be located within the Office membership, the specialized assignment may be filled from outside the Office membership.

3. The criteria for assignment shall be based on skills, knowledge, and the abilities required for the specialized assignment and shall also include formal education requirements and the length of experience required.
4. On an annual basis, each specialized assignment shall be reviewed by the Commanding Officer for whom the specialized assignment was created, for the purpose of determining whether it should be continued. Such review shall include, but not be limited to:
 - a. An evaluation of the initial problem or condition that required the implementation of the specialized assignment; and,
 - b. A cost-benefit analysis of the specialized assignment.

Job Descriptions:

Current job descriptions shall be maintained by the Human Resources Division for all positions. These job descriptions are guidelines of specific and essential duties, responsibilities, and qualification requirements for each position or assignment. All agency job descriptions are also available in Microsoft Outlook, which is available to all agency personnel.
