CHAPTER: 034		TITLE: Criminal Investigations
EFFECTIVE DATE: August 26, 2009	NO. PAGES: 21	REVIEWED/REVISED: November 29, 2022
 Sheriff of Monroe County

I. PURPOSE: The purpose of this General Order is to establish guidelines for the operation of Criminal Investigations

II. DISCUSSION: This Directive shall apply to all members associated with criminal investigations. The function of Criminal Investigations is to accomplish justice by determining the accurate detection of the offender and by making it possible in a trial to sustain the State's burden of criminal proof. The goal of law enforcement is to protect life and property from the criminal element. When crimes do occur it is necessary for law enforcement officials to determine the perpetrator and his/her locations. This criminal investigation becomes an integral and most important part of law enforcement. The personnel responsible for criminal investigations within the Monroe County Sheriff's Office are both patrol and detective personnel. It is the policy of the Sheriff that the Detective be responsible for all detailed investigations relating to death investigations, aggravated assault, serious injuries, robberies, sex crimes, burglaries, missing persons, detention facility crimes, crimes against children, frauds, forgeries, illegal checks, counterfeiting, auto thefts, arson and other document and white collar crimes. B. Preliminary Investigations: A properly conducted preliminary investigation maybe sufficient to bring a case to a satisfactory conclusion, thereby eliminating the need for follow-up investigation. A preliminary investigation is the activity that begins when uniformed deputies arrive at the scene of an incident. The activity should continue until such time as postponement of the investigation or transfer of responsibility will not jeopardize the successful completion of the investigation. Preliminary investigations are to be conducted by uniformed patrol deputies, unless the case is reported in person at the Office and is of a specialized nature, (i.e., child abuse, etc.).

1. The first Deputy arriving at an incident scene shall:

- a. Protect life;

- c. Determine the identity of the suspect or suspects, and effect an arrest if it can be accomplished either at the scene or through immediate pursuit
- d. Furnish other field units, through the communications system, descriptions, method and direction of flight, and other relevant information concerning wanted persons or vehicles.
- e. Obtain complete identification of all witnesses

- h. Determine in detail the exact circumstances of the offense
- i. Interview complainant, witnesses and suspects and take written statements when appropriate
- j. Accurately and completely record all pertinent information on the prescribed report forms.

C. Follow-up Investigations: A properly conducted follow-up investigation may be sufficient to bring a case to a satisfactory conclusion. Not every case can be readily solved. However, by measuring the degree of solvability, and the degree of seriousness, along with proper scheduling and periodic reporting, the investigative workload can be properly managed for successful follow-up investigation.

1. The following steps are presented as a guideline to be followed in conducting a follow-up investigation. There are steps that may be eliminated in the event they are not found to be necessary. For example, every follow-up investigation may not include a search.

- a. Reviewing and analyzing all previous reports prepared in the preliminary phase: When conducting follow-up investigations the member conducting the investigation will thoroughly review the initial incident report documenting the incident under investigation, as well as any supplemental reports that have been written, and any statements taken during the initial investigation. It is based upon this review that the member should develop an investigative strategy for conducting additional investigation of the incident.
- b. Conducting additional interviews and interrogations: Upon completion of the initial case review, members conducting follow-up investigations should make an initial determination of any additional witness or potential witness that may need to be interviewed regarding the incident under investigation. In addition if a suspect, or potential suspect has been identified, then an interrogation of the suspect may be appropriate. Any interrogations will be conducted in compliance with agency policy and with due regard for the civil rights of the subject being interrogated. As the investigation progresses, members conducting follow-up investigations should conduct additional interviews of witnesses as new witnesses are identified.
- c. Reviewing departmental (Office) records: Members conducting follow-up investigations should do a search in the agency computer database for information possibly related to the incident currently under investigation. This search is to identify, but not limited to:
 - 1) Prior incidents at the same location where the incident currently under investigation occurred
 - 2) Any known suspect from prior incidents as described above
 - 3) To locate any identifiable stolen property from the case under investigation that may have been pawned and entered in the pawn shop database of the agency
 - 4) To identify any potential suspect who may have been field contacted by officers, in the area of and during the time frame when the incident under investigation occurred.
- d. Seeking additional information (from Uniformed Deputies, informants, etc.): Upon completion of the initial case review, members conducting follow-up investigations should make an initial determination of potential sources of information related to the incident currently under investigation. These sources of information can include, but are not limited to, uniform officers, confidential informants, cooperating defendants, citizens, etc.
- e. Collecting physical evidence: Upon initiating a follow-up investigation the member conducting the investigation should review the initial case reports to ensure that a thorough processing of the initial incident scene was conducted. If additional scene processing is required, the member conducting the follow-up investigation should insure that this processing is accomplished and any additional evidence is recovered. All evidence recovered will be placed into property in compliance with agency policy. In addition, the member conducting follow-up investigations will insure that any evidence recovered that is to be submitted for laboratory analysis, is in fact submitted and submitted in compliance with the guidelines of the agency and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.
- f. Reviewing results from laboratory examinations: Members conducting follow-up investigations will review all laboratory examination reports related to the incident under investigation to determine if they provide any information; that may identify the perpetrator(s) of the incident under investigation, or provide any additional investigative leads that can be followed.

- g. Arranging for dissemination of information as appropriate: It is the responsibility of the member conducting follow-up investigations to ensure that the internal dissemination of any information related to the incident under investigation is accomplished. Any release of information to the media will be coordinated through the Community Relations Division.
 - h. Identifying and apprehending suspects: When a member conducting a follow-up investigation makes a determination that probable cause exist to arrest a suspect, it is the investigating member's responsibility to complete a probable cause/arrest affidavit, and or apply for an arrest warrant for the suspect. Additionally, it is the investigating member's responsibility to ensure that any arrest warrant issued is appropriately entered by the agencies Warrants Division, if the original warrant is not served on the suspect. It is also the responsibility of the investigating member to ensure that a diligent effort is made, by the investigating member or others, to locate and arrest the suspect named in the affidavit or arrest warrant.
 - i. Planning, organizing and conducting searches: It is the responsibility of the member conducting follow-up investigations to coordinate through their immediate supervisor any follow-up searches for evidence that may be conducted. Searches are to be conducted with due regard for safety of the members involved and in compliance with the established rule of evidence and criminal procedure.
 - j. Preparing cases for Court presentation: It is the responsibility of members conducting follow-up investigations to insure that a complete copy of the initial case report, all subsequent investigative reports, statements, audio/video tapes, arrest affidavits, warrants, etc., are submitted to the State Attorney's Office to facilitate the criminal prosecution of any subjects arrested. In addition, members conducting follow-up investigations will assist the Assistant State Attorney prosecuting the criminal case as requested.
 - k. Assisting in prosecution: Members conducting follow-up investigations will assist the State Attorney's Office in any subsequent criminal prosecutions related to the investigation conducted by the member as requested.
 - l. Determining involvement of suspects in other crimes: Members conducting follow-up investigations should conduct a search of the agency computer database to determine if the suspect(s) identified in the incident under investigation are named as a suspect involved in other crimes. This may be accomplished by a simple name search of suspects identified in other crimes or a more complex modus operandi search conducted through the Crime Analysis Division. In serious violent crimes, members conducting follow-up investigations should complete and submit to the FBI a FBI V.I.C.A.P. report on the crime for entry into the nationwide database.
 - m. Checking suspects' criminal histories, determine if suspect is a habitual offender: Members conducting follow-up investigations will conduct (either themselves or by others) a search of the NCIC/FCIC computer database to determine what if any prior criminal history any suspect(s) or potential suspect(s) in the incident under investigation may have. This search is done to:
 - 1) Determine the potential habitual offender status of the suspect.
 - 2) For member safety in determining the potential threat level of the suspect.
2. All follow-ups are to be documented on a Supplemental form and signed by the investigating member.

3. Whether the case follow-up is conducted by a uniformed deputy or detective, the victim, complainant and/or witness(s) are to be contacted a second time within seven days after the report of the original incident and preliminary investigation. After this second contact, the case may be closed by a supplement report if no information or leads exist, making another follow-up unnecessary or impractical. Contacting a victim, complainant and/or witness for a second time, after a lapse of several days, may result in the receipt of information leading to the clearance of a case. Maintaining a policy of second contact is valuable in building public confidence in the Office as well as indicating that the members of this Office are genuinely concerned about the welfare of the victim and other citizens associated with the case.
4. Assignment of Follow-ups

- a. Arrested/Closed: Closed by Arrest when at least one person is
 - 1) arrested,
 - 2) charged with the commission of the offense, and
